

INFORMATION SECURITY

Thank you for allowing Davenport & Company to serve your investment needs. Protection of the privacy of client information is extremely important, and we take our obligations to secure your data seriously. Davenport maintains a comprehensive Privacy and Information Security Program, and the components of the program are reviewed and updated on a regular basis. We include administrative, technical and physical safeguards such as firewalls, encryption and active monitoring of account activity to protect the confidentiality and integrity of any personal information you provide to us.

In light of the recent data breach experienced by Equifax, Inc., we would like to remind you of the ways you can attempt to protect yourself from cyber crime.

1. On a regular basis, watch for the typical signs of identity theft:

- a. Unfamiliar or unexplained transactions of any nature on your financial accounts. Examine the statements for your bank, brokerage, and credit and/or debit cards every month, including electronic statements if you have turned off your paper copies.
- b. A reduction of communication. Ensure you receive an electronic or paper copy of your statements each month. You may stop receiving mail if your address has been fraudulently changed.
- c. Phone calls regarding purchases or unpaid invoices or debts you do not recognize.

2. Consider requesting a copy of your credit report.

Annual free reports are available at www.annualcreditreport.com. Review all disclaimers and disclosures carefully before choosing this service.

Look for any item that is incorrect or unusual, specifically:

- a. Any new account opened or any unfamiliar charges.
- b. Credit inquiries that you did not initiate.
- c. Inaccuracies in your address, social security number and other identifying information.

If you suspect fraudulent activity or inaccuracies, notify the credit-reporting agency and the information provider shown on your credit report.

3. Consider placing a fraud alert on your credit file with at least one of the major credit reporting agencies.

A fraud alert can be made free of charge and requires a business to contact you if a new account or credit is requested in your name. Be aware this will include yourself if you legitimately apply for credit. A fraud alert generally lasts for 90 days, but may be extended up to seven years if a report of Identity Theft is filed with the Federal Trade Commission. For more information and recommendations, visit the FTC Identity Theft site at www.consumerftc.gov.

National Consumer Reporting Agencies

Experian (800) 397-3742
Experian.com

Equifax (800) 766-0008
Equifax.com

TransUnion (800) 680-7289
transunion.com

- 4. Consider placing a credit/security freeze. In order to place a freeze, you will need to contact each credit agency and request a freeze on all credit. A cost is generally associated with this request to both place and remove the freeze. Please note a credit freeze may prevent you from acquiring new credit even if you legitimately initiate the request.

Specific to the recent Equifax, Inc. breach, you may wish to determine if the matter has affected you. If you choose, visit Equifax's website www.equifaxsecurity2017.com and review the information provided by them under "Potential Impact". Review legal disclaimers and provisions carefully before proceeding. Their website provides updates on the breach and other important customer information.

For a copy of our Privacy Pledge to Customers, visit www.investdavenport.com/client-disclosures/privacy-policy

This material has been provided for informational purposes only and was not prepared with any specific knowledge of any particular client objective or situation. Davenport & Company LLC ("Davenport") does not have a business relationship or association with any of the vendors mentioned in this document and is not recommending any vendor. This information has been compiled from sources believed to be reliable; however, no representation or warranty is provided as to its accuracy, completeness, or reliability. None of the information or suggestions presented here should be regarded by readers as a substitute for the exercise of your own judgment. If you have any questions, please contact your Davenport Investment Executive.